

A Base Station – Mountain Station (1620 m)

Medium – Walking time approx. 2.5 hrs – trail no. 618

A wide forest path starts to the right of the base station towards the mountain station. After about 20 min. the path splits. The left path goes on the slightly steeper gravel path towards Wallbergsattel. Once you get there, you reach the Alte Wallberghaus (1512 m) within five min. The direct route no. 618 to the Wallbergbahn mountain station leads to the left over a wide road to the panoramic restaurant. From here you have an impressive panoramic view from the foothills of the Alps to the Zugspitze, Großglockner and Großvenediger. The Wallbergbahn takes you back down into the valley comfortably in about 15 min. while you enjoy a wonderful view of Lake Tegernsee and the picturesque surrounding area.

B Base station – Mountain Station – via Wallbergmoos-Alm

Medium – Walking time approx. 3 hrs – trails no. 618, 618a

The start is to the right of the base station on the wide forest path. Keep right at the fork in the road. This slightly longer yet not so steep hiking trail takes you to the Wallbergmoos-Alm in just under an hour. From here the trail winds along a wooded path. Sure-footedness and good footwear are required. When it rains, this steep and rooty trail can partially become very slippery. After about 1 h you get back to path no. 618 and across the Wallbergsattel to the mountain station.

C Mountain Station – Wallbergkircherl (1605m)

Easy – Walking time approx. 5 min – trail no. 618

On the short walk to Wallberg's 100-year-old landmark, the Wallbergkircherl, enjoy a magnificent view down into the valley, and to the Tegernsee mountains. Church services are held regularly in summer.

D Mountain Station – Wallberg Summit (1722 m)

Medium – Walking time approx. 1/2 hrs – trail no. 618

At the mountain station, trail no. 618 leads east under the cable car to the paraglider take-off point in front of the Hintermaueralm. A partly rocky path begins here, which eventually climbs steeply to a saddle. We continue over some cliffs, which require sturdy shoes and sure-footedness, up to a plateau. Here you can see the rocky summit of the Wallberg with its impressive summit cross.

E Mountain Station – Setzberg (1706 m)

Medium – Walking time approx. 1.5 hrs – trail no. 618b

First go downhill towards Setzberg/Risserkogel, past the Wallbergkircherl and the paragliding launch site to the Alte Wallberghaus, behind which an earthen path climbs in serpentine to the ridge. From there the path leads to the summit with its large wooden cross. The descent takes place either back via the outward route or towards the eastern flank of the Setzberg. This trail is not signposted but clearly visible and initially leads steeply downhill. After rain it can become very slippery and requires good footwear and sure-footedness! At the "Setzberg Alpine Nature Trail" junction, turn left over the Alte Wallberghaus back towards the mountain station.

F Mountain Station – observation point "EXPERIENCE GAMS (Chamois)"

Easy – Walking time approx. 1.5 hrs – trails no. 618b, 617

From the mountain station you go to the Wallbergkircherl. From there, the varied Alpine Nature Trail leads over the Wallbergsattel and the Wallberghaus through old spruce forests to the "GAMS (Chamois) EXPERIENCE" observation point. There you can learn interesting facts about the chamois, a fascinating resident of the mountains, and with a bit of luck you can watch the animals foraging against the backdrop of Risserkogel and Blankenstein. An impressive experience not only for children!

Interesting & useful information

Alpine Nature Trail

The Alpine Nature Trail runs from the accommodation house on Wallberg over the Setzberg to the Risserkogel. Hikers are provided with knowledge on 30 panels: about the respectful treatment of nature and wildlife, the formation of the Alps, information about mountain forests, the importance of alpine pasture management, hunting in the high mountains and animals such as chamois and golden eagles..

"EXPERIENCE GAMS" observation point

In the middle of the approximately four kilometer long and 300 meter altitude route through the Natura 2000 protected area is the chamois observation station with a small refuge and a permanently installed telescope. The aim is to make the diurnal animals tangible for hikers. If you behave calmly and show consideration, with a bit of luck you can gain insights into the life and impressive climbing skills of the chamois or discover marmots or one of the golden eagles. The observation point offers a view of the Risserkogel, where chamois stay in the summer to, among other things, raise their young.

G Mountain Station – Alpine Nature Trail – Grubereck – Risserkogel

Medium – Walking time approx. 2.5 hrs – trails no. 618b, 617

Starting from the mountain station the path leads to the Alte Wallberghaus and continues to the Alpine Nature Trail towards Grubereck/Risserkogel. Shortly before the Grubereck, turn left along the Via Alpina (No. 617) to Grubereck (1664 m) - this is the first time where there is a free view in all directions. The ridge now runs to the east and initially becomes wider, but then narrows to a slightly exposed burr. This is followed by the very impressive part of this hike: the climb over the rocky, airy Risserkogel West ridge. Good hiking shoes and sure-footedness are required here! Shortly before the Risserkogel summit (1826 m) wire rope safety devices help while climbing over the rocky path. From the summit there is a magnificent view of the majestic mountains, with good visibility all the way to the main alpine ridge!

H Mountain Station – Alpine Nature Trail – Risserkogel – Riederecksattel – Sibli-Alm – Enterrottach – Base station

Medium – Walking time approx. 6.5 hrs – trails no. 618b, 617, 503, 504

Climb to Risserkogel (1826 m) as described under G. The way back leads a short distance back along the ascent path until a steep path (No. 617, Via Alpina) branches off to the right towards Blankenstein. Follow the Via Alpina through the valley in front of the Blankenstein. The further descent leads under the Risserkogel along the north-south face of the Blankenstein, past the Riedereckalm, over the Sibli-Alm into the valley to the Hufnagelstube car park opposite the Suttentbahn. From here hiking trail no. 503 leads to Enterrottach. After the Almhof in Enterrottach the road crosses the Rottach. At the next junction, turn left (No. 504) to the base station. On this tour, worthwhile detours lead along signposted paths to the Sibli Waterfalls and the Rottach Falls.

I Loop: Mountain Station – Alpine Nature Trail – Grubereck – Risserkogel – Röthenstein- and Rottach-Alm – Mountain Station

Medium – Walking time approx. 5.5 hrs. – trails no. 618b, 617, 617b

Sledding and freeriding with a view on Lake Tegernsee

In winter, the Wallberg beckons with one of the longest natural sledding runs in Germany. The sporty descent is more than six kilometers long and takes the sledders into the valley amidst whoops of joy.

Touring skiers and deep snow enthusiasts will get their money's worth on the unprepared ski route. The black run and former FIS route over the Erlten and Glasl slopes has developed into an insider tip for freeriders and deep snow fans. However, the 3.2 kilometer long descent is only recommended for very good skiers.
